Heritage Lincolnshire are actively tackling the traditional building skills shortage, which is crucial in conserving the architectural heritage and unique character of historic buildings. We offer an innovative programme of hands on traditional building skills training, which includes classes on limewashing and lime pointing.

We provide training in traditional building skills.

Our staff provide high quality practical lessons in the traditional craftsmanship used in the construction and repair of historic buildings. Our training inspires knowledge and confidence in practising traditional buildings skills, which is creating a new pool of craftsmen and women adept at preserving historic buildings.
